

TORRANCE HERALD COMPLETE

TELEVISION LOG

TORRANCE, CALIFORNIA, SUNDAY, JULY 27, 1952

PROGRAM NOTES

The history of the Christian Church and a description of its liturgy will be offered by the Reverend Clifton Moore, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, in his behind-the-scenes narration of this remote telecast, on Channel 11 at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Few can be explorers in jungles—but anyone can collect his own "animal" farm without going more than fifty feet from the living room, as will be seen on Johns Hopkins Science Review Sunday, Channel 11 at 7 p. m.

In the telecast entitled "In Your Own Backyard," Dr. Charles Kohb, biologist and showman, will show how to collect animals which he has collected in the grass and from the bushes and trees around his home.

Pop singer Connie Haines, baritone Earl Wrightson and harpist Robert Maxwell will be featured in the new series on "Cowboyland of Stars" Sunday, 6 p. m., Channel 11.

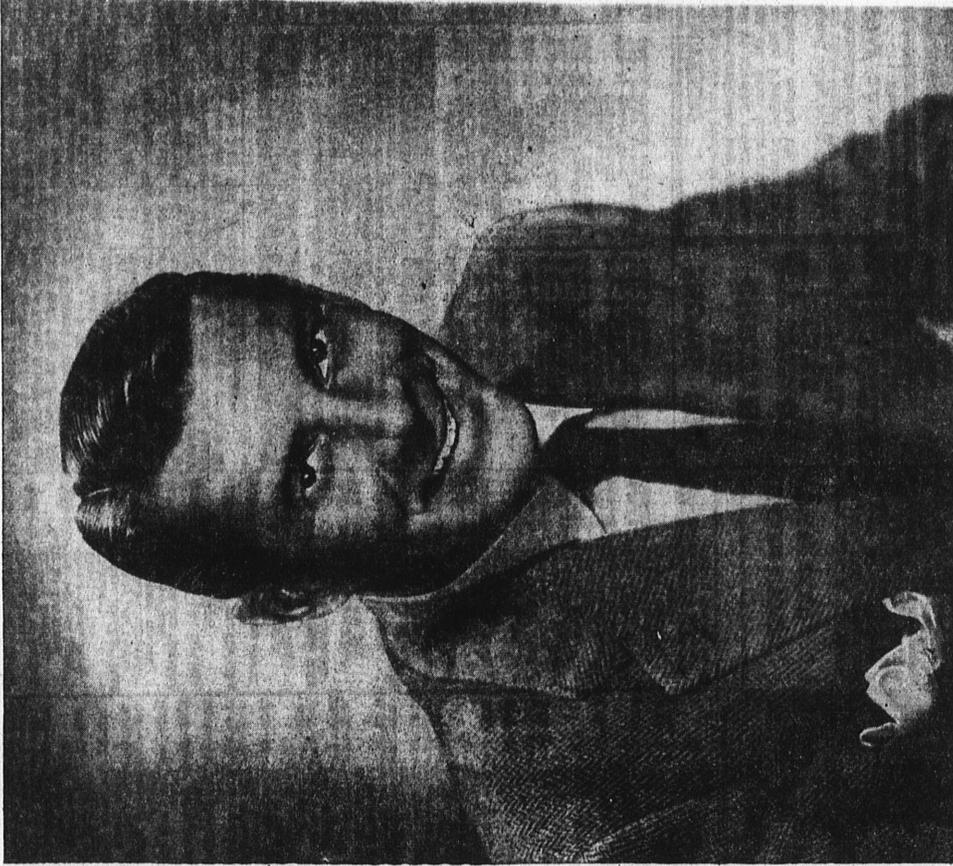

"International Lady," story of wartime intrigue in which a golden-voiced concert singer upsets the plans of America and England saboteurs will be presented by Art Baker as picture of the week on Channel 11 at 7:30 Sunday evening.

Titlo Guizar, tenor star of stage, screen, radio and concert, will be the star of a new musical program in which he will sing on Channel 11 on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Judy Foster learns belatedly and at great price that there's life in the old folks yet (her parents) in "Judy Gives A Party," the second story in the new series "A Day With" to be shown on Channel 11 on Thursday at 8 p. m.

The dramatic-documentary program shot at the San Quentin State Prison, first actual telecast utilizing television cameras inside the prison, will be seen on Channel 11 at 8:30 p. m. Show used actual settings, an actual prisoner and prison personnel to tell the story of a prisoner from his arrival through his release from the institution.

A complete history of the sign talk of the American Indian, entitled "How," has been written by KTLA's Chief from Eyes Cody seen each Saturday on "Cowboy Thrills," 5:30 p. m., Channel 5.

REED HADLEY PLAYS SLEUTH WITHOUT GIMMICKS

Racket Buster Sticks to Straightforward Approach

As Captain Braddock, Hadley heads a cast of top actors from stage, screen and television. His Racket Squad has helped expose rackets ranging from pennies to millions of dollars. With "It can happen to you," for its theme, the half-hour show has dramatized such confidence games as the "Spanish Prisoner" racket, the "Salted Mines" game, false money-making machines and pills supposed to turn a tank full of water into a tank of gasoline.

Hadley, six-foot-four and a native of Texas, was brought up in Buffalo, New York. He went from a building Broadway career to motion picture and radio work in Hollywood. Some of the 75 pictures in which he has been seen were "House on 92nd Street," "Captain from Castile," "Leave Her to Heaven," "Behind the Iron Curtain," and the current "The Hair Breed." He will also be remembered as radio's first Red Ryder.

One of the most stereotyped roles on TV screens today is the detective. No mere mortal, this theatrical phenomenon possesses the intuition of a swami, the indestructibility of a punching bag, the wardrobe of a race-track tout and the simile-packed patter of an overworked script writer. One refreshing exception to the superhuman sleuth formula is Reed Hadley, an actor who takes pride in his "straight" portrayal of Captain Braddock on Philip Morris' "Racket Squad" series, seen Thursday at 9:30 p. m. on Channel 2.

In line with the public service value of this series which attempts to save TV viewers from the clutches of dangerous con men, Hadley's interpretation of the able detective is noticeably devoid of theatrics and gimmicks. Not that the provocatively tall, dark and handsome young actor fails to invest his role with interest and sparkle. His fan mail, mostly from the ladies, attests to his high audience appeal.

Includes the headline 'your family will eat better all year round - another good reason for owning an electric home food freezer!' and a list of benefits: 'Appetites are funny—they have no regard for calendars. But the words "out of season" can be dropped from your menu-planning vocabulary when you have an electric home food freezer. Everything is in season at any season, in a freezer. You can keep the pick of the crop for serving any time the family's appetite calls for it—and it will be field-fresh, as tasty and delicious when you serve it as it was when you stored it away. Certainly that's one of the benefits you get from owning an electric home food freezer. There are many others, too—all automatically yours with your freezer. So why wait—see your dealer now.'
